

To Whom it May Concern,

I am writing to share my experience with SilverStream solution in wound care, having accumulated experience of over four years of working with the Solution in the Hadassah Medical Center hospital wound coordinator practice in Israel, wound clinic, and homecare settings. The exceptional outcomes achieved with the SilverStream Solution have been remarkable, particularly in the management of diverse wound cases.

In my working environment, SilverStream has proven to be highly effective in addressing a wide spectrum of wounds, including diabetic ulcers, post-surgical wounds, trauma cases, pressure ulcers, and venous ulcers. Additionally, its unique formulation equips SilverStream with antibacterial and antifungal properties, allowing the Solution effectively approach the different wound treatment phases and up to complete healing.

SilverStream solution versatility plays a key role not just in enhancing optimal healing but also in preventing ulcers, including those linked with Bullous Erysipelas.

One notable application of SilverStream lies in its successful integration with negative pressure systems. This combination has demonstrated remarkable efficacy in the resection of Pilonidal Disease, shows its versatility in various clinical scenarios.

Moreover, in grafting procedures, SilverStream has played a crucial role in preparation and post-grafting treatment, significantly contributing to accelerating the healing process of wounds following grafting.

The positive impact of SilverStream in wound care cannot be overstated. Its antimicrobial properties, coupled with its ease of application, make it an invaluable asset in our efforts to provide high-quality care and ensure optimal patient outcomes.

SilverStream unique formulation, coupled with its antibacterial and antifungal properties, positions it as a leading choice in my wound care practice. Furthermore, its potential to reduce antibiotic usage adds to its appeal as a valuable tool in our clinical arsenal.

I am confident that the continued use of SilverStream will contribute to the advancement of wound care practices, ensuring the best possible results for our patients.

Sincerely,

Cernica Chausha Weitman, R.N M.A
